

AMELIA MCGOVERN

Los Angeles | Providence | Boston
linkedin.com/in/amelia-mcgovern
www.amcgoverndesign.com

Dear Hiring Professional,

My name is Amelia McGovern, and I am an industrial design student at the Rhode Island School of Design (RISD) specializing in footwear, CMF, housewares, and soft goods. I am a hardworking and imaginative designer eager to collaborate with and learn from your team. I am especially passionate about creative production, intentional design, and sustainable practices.

At RISD, I have built a strong foundation in physical making and research. My work often involves exploring textiles and foundational color theory, where I analyze systems to create functional, storytelling visuals. I am constantly expanding my technical toolkit through hands-on experience, including designing footwear and developing color, materials, and finish concepts as an intern at NOBULL.

Beyond my coursework, I bring strong leadership and coordination skills. My experience also includes creating content for Brown XO Magazine, designing with the Brown University Fashion Club, and participating in the RISD Rock Climbing Club.

I am a flexible, self-motivated creator who enjoys the research process and supporting teams through organized documentation and clear communication. I would love the opportunity to contribute my skills and learn at every stage of your creative process.

I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how my design background and coordination skills can support your team.

Thank you for the opportunity to share my work!

Sincerely,

Amelia McGovern

